

Christi Barrett. Christi works with Humanergy's programs to ensure innovation, clarity and impact.

As an administrator, facilitator and trainer, Christi has twenty years of experience with human services organizations. She has developed and implemented training, facilitated strategic planning and designed and refined program interventions.

Christi currently works with community leaders helping them challenge themselves to rewrite personal truths and coach one other for success. She enjoys seeing clients' ah-ha moments—when they experience a breakthrough in thinking that then leads to a personal change for the better.

Originally, from all over the United States, Christi is also a Healing of Racism program facilitator. She served fourteen years at Starr Commonwealth, a nationally recognized nonprofit child and family service organization focused on character development and leadership.

Christi is the co-author of In Whose Best Interest: One Child's Odyssey, A Nation's Responsibility and Putting Connectedness, Continuity, Dignity and Opportunity to Work. She has a bachelor's of science degree in Zoology from DePauw University and a master's degree in higher education administration from Indiana University.

Christi believes in making the best out of life's curve balls. Her favorite quote is Gandhi's: "Be the change you wish to see in the world." His words keep her centered on changing herself first instead of whining about everyone else.

Christi joined Humanergy in 2003. She is a hip mom encouraging, scheduling and supporting her three children. In her free time, she enjoys traveling, a good book and a great glass of wine.
